Advertising is a media message used to sell products or ideas to a target audience, namely use the buyers. By being well informed, consumers can compare, contrast, try and finally, choose the right product. However, some advertisements give a false image of products. Advertisers promote these products to make people feel the need to buy. In other words they advertise their products by sending attractive messages to influence consumer's decision. Products become the decision makers. Consumers end up buying things they do not necessarily need. The worst role of advertising is when companies advertise harmful products, such as energy drinks or fatty food, not to mention unacceptable ideas. They persuade their target audience and make them believe they are making the right choice, but in fact they might end up harming themselves.

And although the passengers had fastened their seat belts, they were suddenly thrown forward. At that moment, the airhostess appeared. She looked very pale, but she was very calm. Speaking quickly, but almost in a whisper, she informed everyone that the pilot had fainted and asked if any of the passengers knew anything about machines, or at least how to drive a car. After a moment's hesitation, a man got up and followed the hostess into the pilot's cabin.

Moving the pilot aside, the man took his seat and listened carefully to the urgent instructions that were being sent by radio from the airport below. The plane was now dangerously close to the ground, but to everyone's relief, it soon began to climb. The man had to circle the airport several times in order to become familiar with the controls. But the danger hadn't yet passed. The terrible moment came when he had to land. Following instructions, the man guided the plane towards the airfield. It shook violently as it touched the ground, but after a long run, it stopped safely. Outside, a crowd of people who had been watching anxiously, rushed forward to congratulate "the pilot" on a perfect landing.

Thomas Edison lit up the world with his invention of the electric light. Without him, the world might still be a dark place. He also invented the phonograph, the motion picture camera, and over 1,200 other things.

Thomas Edison was born in 1847. Surprisingly, he attended school for only two months. His mother, a former teacher, taught him a few things, but he was mostly self-educated. His natural curiosity led him to start experimenting at a young age with electrical and mechanical things at home.

When he was 12 years old, he got his first job. He became a newsboy on a train. He set up a laboratory in a baggage car of the train so that he could continue his experiments in his spare time. He was fired when he accidentally set fire to the floor of the baggage car. He then worked for five years as a telegraph operator, but he continued to spend much of his time on the job conducting experiments. He got his first patent in 1868 for a vote recorder run by electricity. In 1870, he invented a stock-ticker, a machine that automatically prints stock prices on a tape.

Thomas Edison was totally deaf in one ear and hard of hearing in the other, but thought of his deafness as a blessing in many ways. It kept conversations short, so that he could have more time for work. He called himself a "two-shift man" because he worked 16 out of every 24 hours. Sometimes he worked so intensely that his wife had to remind him to sleep and eat.

Thomas Edison died at the age of 84 in 1931. He left numerous inventions that improved the quality of life all over the world.

6- Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

One of the results of technology and pollution grown is the increase of water pollution throughout the world. According to a United Nations report the future of all life on earth will be endangered if man does not control contamination of the environment. It is time we realized the full extent of the dangers that face mankind. For instance, here in Egypt, look at our River Nile. It is strange to see how everything is thrown into it as if it were our litter basket. Instead of keeping it clean and pure, we pollute it. We ourselves, not our enemies, dirty it with our own hands. Some farmers wash themselves, their clothes, their animals, their pots and pans in its water. They even throw away their dead animals, and birds into it. Some people living in cities and towns throw their old tyre and broken bottles and rusty tins into it. Factories throw their waste chemicals and garbage. In this way the Nile water gets poisoned, kills fish, poisons land, weakens crops and destroys health. So it would be foolish to shut our eyes to the dangers of the pollution that man causes to the very thing on which his life depends. Please keep our Nile clean.

Elizabeth Blackwell was born in England in 1821, and emigrated to New York city when she was ten years old. One day she decided that she wanted to become a doctor. That was nearly impossible for a woman in the middle of the nineteenth century. After writing many letters seeking admission to medical schools, she was finally accepted by a doctor in Philadelphia. So determined was she that she taught at school and gave music lessons to earn money for her tuition.

In 1849, after graduation from medical school, she decided to further her education in Paris. She wanted to be a surgeon, but a serious eye infection forced her to give up the idea.

Upon returning to the United States, she found it difficult to start her own practice because she was a woman. By 1857 Elizabeth and her sister, also a doctor, along with

Most countries in the world now welcome tourists because of the money they bring in. Many countries make great efforts to encourage tourism, and many also depend on what they earn from it to keep their economies going. People who like adventure will even try to visit countries. Companies regularly arrange trips through the Sahara desert or to Himalayan mountains for whoever enjoys such trips, but the numbers of visitors are small. Most tourists try to choose whichever places have fairly comfortable, cheap hotels, quite good food, reasonable safety, sunny weather or unusual things to see. Their choice of a place for a holiday also depends on when they can get away, it is not very pleasant to go to a place when it is having its worst weather. One big problem for a nation wishing to attract tourists is the cost of building hotels for them. Building good hotels swallow up a lot of money, and many of the countries that need the tourists are poor. What they spend on building has to be borrowed from foreign banks. Another problem is that more and more big international companies are building hotels all over the world, so that the profits from a hotel often do not stay in the country in which it has been built. And there is also the question of training staff, teaching them foreign languages, how to cook the kind of food that foreign tourists expect. In Egypt special colleges have been set up for this purpose. Tourists often feel shocked by the different customs and habits that they see around them. They refuse the local food and insist on having only what they eat at home

A. Answer the following questions:

6. Read the following passage , then answer the questions:

The celebration of Earth Day began in the city of San Francisco and was started by their mayor at the request of John McConnell. The first Earth Day celebration was held on March 21, 1970, which was the first day of spring. Earth Day is important because it reminds us to stop and look at the problems of our environment. We need to make plans to recycle materials that are recyclable and to clean up our rivers, streams, lakes, and oceans. Pollution is causing danger to the air we breathe, our soil, and our water sources. Industries, automobiles, and others are releasing dangerous smoke in to our atmosphere and the air we breathe. This release can cause health problems to people living on Earth. Each of us must do our part to recycle and reuse products instead of throwing them away. The trash we deliver to our landfills each week is taking up valuable land and space we need for homes and farms. Earth Day is now celebrated each year on April 22 nd. Schools around the world take part in making sure that our world is a cleaner place. Students volunteer to pick up trash at their schools, homes, and neighborhoods to do their part in helping our environment.

Humans, unlike many other animals eat everything .We require both vegetable and meat to be fully healthy; though some humans manage to survive reasonably healthily whilst consuming no animal products at all, finding their protein mainly in nuts and seeds. To carry out its many complicated functions, the human body requires different chemicals and substances. All of the nutrition we take in can be put in 1 of 7 categories. These are; proteins, carbohydrates, fibre, minerals, vitamins, fats and water. Carbohydrates provide the body with energy. Proteins allow the body to repair itself and grow. Fibre aids the digestive system. Minerals and vitamins are required for many reasons; lack in any vitamin or mineral can lead to illnesses. Vitamins are essential for normal growth and development. Fats are often unnecessary, and many are bad for you. The body doesn't need to take in most fats, but the fatty acids omega-3 and omega-6. The body is around 70% water. If water isn't consumed, the body will dehydrate. The body loses water in excretion, sweating and breathing. 5. Read the following passage , then answer the questions:

The first Thanksgiving celebration was held in 1621. The writings of the Pilgrims tell us that about 140 people attended the three-day celebration. Ninety of the people were Indian men and about 50 people were Pilgrims. Only four of the Pilgrims were women. The long terrible winter had been difficult for the Pilgrims and many of the Pilgrims died because of illness and lack of shelter or homes. The Thanksgiving celebration was held after the Pilgrims had gathered their first crops or harvest. The feast was held outside because the Pilgrims did not have a building large enough to hold 140 people. The Pilgrims were thankful for the harvest and for the help of the Indian people in teaching them to grow crops in America. Without their help, the Pilgrims would have had little to eat. The menu for the first Thanksgiving included venison or deer meat, fowl, which included ducks, geese, and turkeys. Sea bass, cod fish, cornmeal, fruits and vegetables were also served. Games were played, singing and dancing were also part of the celebration. Praises were given to God for the harvest and for the Pilgrims that survived the harsh winter. Thanksgiving in America is celebrated on the fourth Thursday in November. Families prepare a meal similar to the meal prepared by the Pilgrims and Indians many years ago. It is a time for counting the many blessings we have received during the year and for spending time with family and friends.

He's arriving at ten o'clock. The headmistress will give him some tea in her office, then he'll visit the science classes with Mr Magdy, the head science teacher. In our science club, after we had gathered information from the internet, we made posters about conserving energy. We want to encourage others to conserve energy by using less electricity and using public transportation more. We also learned about the efforts of scientists and engineers to find new energy sources. We made small models of solar energy panels that generate electricity from sunlight, and windmills that generate electricity from the wind. These will be exhibited at other schools. Some of us drew ideas for new types of cars that will use less fuel. Many science club members want to become energy engineers. We hope this journalist's story will encourage other students to find solutions to energy problems.

It must be said that the majority of those who are against Genetically Modified (GM) foods are neither living in countries which suffer from food shortages nor facing starvation . Many scientists believe that without GM foods, the Third World will never overcome its food problems. At present, over one billion people live on less than one dollar a day. The United Nations hopes this number will be cut in half within fifteen years. This will not happen if food continues to be produced in the conventional manner . Foods produced by traditional farming methods do not last very long and often spoil during transport. Very often, food sent by the West to countries suffering from • famine rots before it reaches its destination. Now, scientists have found ways to preserve foods for much longer time. For example, they have developed a preservative made from vitamins and minerals which keeps even cut fruit fresh for up to ten days if refrigerated. Despite this, there are still people who believe agricultural research should be moving in a different direction. They accept that there is no real proof that GM foods are dangerous. However, they believe that the solutions that GM foods provide are short-term and that it is necessary to find longer-lasting and natural means to solve the world's food problems.
